

Call for Manuscripts SCIRA's *Reading Matters

Classroom teachers, teacher educators, administrators, and researchers are invited to submit manuscripts to SCIRA's professional journal, Reading Matters. Authors are requested to submit only unpublished work not under consideration by any other publication.

Types of Submissions:

Reading Matters welcomes practical, theoretical, and research articles, generally no more than 20 pages, related to all areas of literacy. Articles should be clearly written, purposeful, and discuss the topic in some depth where treatment of the topic is interesting, insightful, and based on the writers' experience. Brief commentary pieces on teaching literacy are also welcomed, as well as short teaching tips.

Manuscript Form:

Manuscripts should follow APA style guidelines. Because they are subject to blind review, content should not reveal author identities or affiliations.

Submitting a Manuscript:

Manuscripts should be typed in Microsoft Word and sent as an email attachment to jmalloy@clermson.edu and ktracy@clermson.edu. When naming your file, please use simple file names. Include a cover page giving the author(s)' names, affiliation, complete mailing address, email address, and home and work telephone numbers. Manuscripts will be peer reviewed and edited for style, content, and space limitations by the editor.
